Example

Below are examples of how you might write your solution to a puzzle presented in the booklet. Or you might prefer to just solve them in your head – completely up to you!

Q: Can you find checkmate in one for white?

Here, because the solution is only one move, you might draw arrows on the board or you can use the lines below to answer – or both!

Q: Can you find checkmate in two for white?

Here, the solution is a bit (OK a lot!) trickier and requires consideration of multiple variations. If you are familiar with coordinates, it is probably best that you write your answer out as shown.

1.Qe1 e6 (1..c6 2.Qa5#) 2. Qh4#

Deca

In each position it is white to play. You need to attack an UNPROTECTED piece in a SAFE way (you cannot place your piece where it can be captured).

Mega

In each position it is white to play and find a FORK which wins material. Remember a FORK is where we attack more than one piece with a single move.

Giga

White to play and checkmate in two moves (2 moves from white, one by black).

Tera

White to play and checkmate in two moves (2 moves from white, one by black). These are a little harder than the previous page because the first move might not be a check.

Exa

In each diagram you need to work out whether it is safe or not for white to capture a pawn. Try and write down your main variations.

Fun Puzzles

Over the next couple of pages you will find some more casual puzzles with a range of difficulty levels!

Helpmate - Medium

This puzzle is known as a 'helpmate'. Black has to make the worst possible move, helping white to deliver checkmate on his next move!

So where will black move, and what will be white's reply?

Knight Maze in 21

Difficulty: Harder

In this knight maze white has to move the knight consecutively until it captures the black king. It is not allowed to capture any black pieces and cannot move to squares that are attacked by black pieces. The knight can capture the king in 21 moves – can you find your way through the maze?

Triple Loyd

PUZZLE
WEEK

Difficulty: Medium

In a “Triple Loyd” puzzle you will notice the black king is missing from the board. You have to place the black king in 3 different positions (though sometimes the same square may be used twice)!

- 1) In the first position the black king is in checkmate
- 2) In the second position the black king is in stalemate
- 3) In the third position white can deliver checkmate in one move (and write down this move)!
